OX Open Xchange-Admin Training (EN)

The Open-Xchange (OX) AppSuite presents a popular choice for many providers and carriers, currently powering more than 200 million mailboxes world-wide. On top of that, it features calendars and contacts integration and offers online file storage, as well as software for text processing, working with spread sheets, and creating presentations.

● Experte 📅 3 Tage 🗣️ Peer Heinlein (English) 📍 Berlin / Online

Content:

The training covers a number of areas that any administrator tasked with the setup of a large OX cluster, or ensuring its smooth operation must be equipped with, such as:

- Structure of the Open-Xchange software stack
- High-availability with Hazelcast cluster
- Configuration of Apache proxy cluster
- User management and context setups
- Integration of mobile devices
- File sharing and setup of guest accounts
- Sizing for setups with > 1 million users
- Structure and correct usage of database clusters with OX

We also recommend attending our Dovecot IMAP-Servers course to anyone looking for complementary further training. All training courses that we offer can also be delivered in-house, if desired. Contact our team for further details.

Dozenten

Peer Heinlein (English) founded the Internet Service Provider JPBerlin.de in 1992. He is a seasoned Linux administrator, and his book "Postfix-Buch" about the operation of e-mail servers has become a standard reference in the field. Other books include "LPIC-1" as well as "Snort, Acid & Co." and have been published by Open Source Press. Peer Heinlein is LPIC-2-certified and has been conducting training courses for Linux and UNIX administrators for many years. His main focus is the setup and operation of secure IP networks
